Risk assessment record (please complete and keep a copy for your records)

A Risk Assessment Record must be completed each time you exhibit or sell. Since 1993, it has been a legal requirement for all employers and self employed people to carry out suitable and sufficient risk assessment of their activities at work which could effect the health and safety of themselves, their employees and anyone else (such as contractors, members of the public etc.) Please attach a copy of your own risk assessments to this application.

If an accident occurs, the Investigating Authorities will ask to see evidence of this risk assessment, to satisfy themselves that the person(s) responsible have given "reasonable practicable" consideration to working safely. If you cannot show that you have done so, this will make it more difficult for you to demonstrate that you have taken a responsible approach. Your insurers would certainly be more likely to consider that you acted reasonably and with due diligence if you adopt the process.

This checklist is designed to assist you in your legal duties, and to be able to demonstrate your responsible attitude. It is not intended to be a means of making you "guarantee" you will never cause an accident, as the unforeseen can always occur. All the law requires is that you take reasonable steps to try to be as safe as possible and use a logical method of checking that you have done so.

Most exhibitors are already adopting a common sense approach when exhibiting or selling. However, please take time to consider how you display your exhibits and tick the items appropriate to your stand.
